

Summary

Specification of a Communications System for Mobile Telecommunications and a Suitable Set of Procedures for the System

A communications system for mobile telecommunications and a set of procedures for operating the system are described. The system allocates a sub-area within a total area whereby the parameters of the allocated sub-area are stored in a subscriber identity module (SIM), enabling authorisation checks to be carried out from a mobile user unit.